of Saranac Lake, and the trip in this way is delightful.

Leaving Saranac Inn station the railroad follows the shore of Lake Clear to Lake Clear station. From there a six mile branch extends to the village of Saranac Lake, where connection with the Delaware and Hudson is made for points along that road. The Paul Smith's Railway also runs to Paul Smith's hotel, six miles.

The main line takes a northerly direction from Lake Clear, crossing the Bloomingdale road at Gabriola station, three miles from Bloomingdale village, past Rainbow Lake, across the Saranac River, close to Lake Kashaqua and Loon Lake, to Loon Lake station. The Delaware and Hudson trains connect here for Lyon Mountain, Chateaugay Lakes, Chazy Lake and Plattsburgh.

Leaving Lyon Mountain the railroad passes between Wolf and Plumadore ponds, crossing the Salmon River at Mountain View, following the river to Owl's Head, Chasm Falls, Whippleville and Malone. From Malone trains continue over the St. Lawrence and Adirondack, owned by the New York Central to the village of Conestoga, entering Canada about five miles north of that point and continuing to connect with the Grand Trunk Railway, Massachusetts branch.

Many persons have learned by experience how pleasant it is to travel to the Adirondacks if part of the journey is made by boat. It was for the purpose of making the Adirondack travel as much as for anything else that the Hudson Navigation Company arranged for splendid train connections at Albany and Troy and make every preparation to give a night trip to those points which should be distinguished by comfort and rest.

The Hudson Navigation Company operates the Peoples Line between New York and Albany and the Citizens Line between New York and Troy. The steamers C. W. Morse and Adirondack of the Peoples Line are the latest and most modern types of passenger craft and no river vessels in this or any other country excel them.

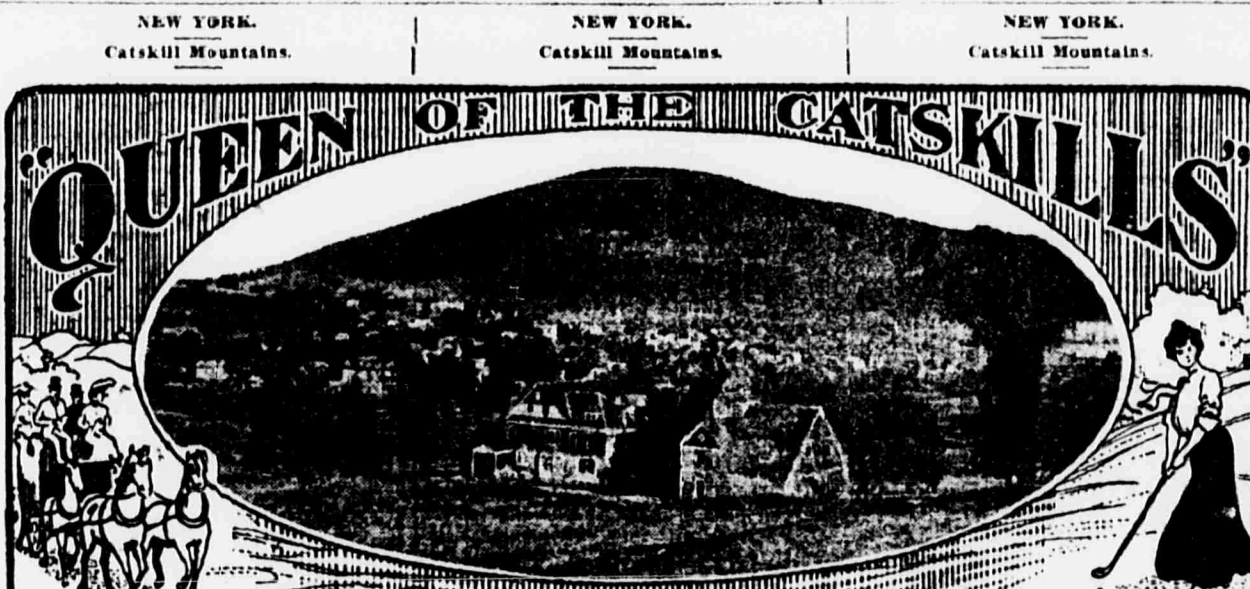

They are practically sister ships, although the Adirondack was launched in 1896 and the Morse in 1903. The only material difference is that the former has a wooden hull, while the latter is of steel, but both are absolutely safe.

The steamers represent an expenditure of over $2,000,000. They are provided with every safeguard and convenience and the passenger wants for nothing in the way of comfort and luxury. Among the features are the great glass enclosed dining rooms, broad promenade decks, luxurious drawing rooms, cafes and smoking rooms.

A better service can be had in the finest hotels in the cities than is available in the perfectly equipped kitchens, which are superintended by chefs who know their business. A fine orchestra is carried on the steamers from June to November and the nightly programmes of music are of the finest sort.

Not the least enjoyable of the pleasures of the night trip between New York and Albany are the searchlight effects. Powerful lights as large as those on battleships have been installed above the pilot houses of the C. W. Morse and Adirondack, and as the vessels plough their way between the banks of the Hudson the vivid electric beams are flashed, now on some sleeping village, now on a towering mountain, even broad and fertile fields or against the rocky and precipitous face of the Palisades. The hours of departure for the night journey enable the traveller to go aboard after the labors of the day are over, and the superb equipment of the boats provides rest, refreshment, entertainment and uninterrupted slumber.

While the steamships of Ontario and Greenport of the Citizens Line are smaller and have been in service longer than the Adirondack and C. W. Morse, they are fully adequate for pleasure and comfort, and if used on other rivers away from comparison with the big Albany night boats would be considered unusually large. The Peoples Line boats leave at 6 P. M. from Pier 32, North River, and the Citizens Line steamers from Pier 46, North River, at 5 P. M.
